SCAN 376 Children and Youth Literature
credit: 3 Hours. (https://courses.illinois.edu/schedule/terms/SCAN/376)

Explores the understanding of childhood and youth in Scandinavia, with comparative focus on the US and the UK through children’s literature and classic accounts of childhood in fiction, film, and related media. Will investigate how childhood is construed in books self-described as children’s literature as well as in adult-audience fiction and memoirs; and how representations of childhood correlate with evolving ideas about family formation, child-rearing, the welfare state, and education in twentieth- and twenty-first century Scandinavia. This is put in comparative context with British and/or US children’s literature. Same as CWL 376, EURO 376, and GWS 376. Credit is not given for both SCAN 376 and SCAN 576.

SCAN 386 Arctic Environment & Society
credit: 6 Hours. (https://courses.illinois.edu/schedule/terms/SCAN/386)

Same as ESE 386 and GLBL 386. See GLBL 386.

SCAN 463 Modern Scandinavian Drama
credit: 3 or 4 Hours. (https://courses.illinois.edu/schedule/terms/SCAN/463)

Thematic and conceptual study of the Scandinavian dramatic tradition, from the late-nineteenth century classics of Henrik Ibsen and August Strindberg, to mid-century intermediality in works by Ingmar Bergman, and to hyperrealism, postmodernism, and digital performativity by contemporary playwrights. Interpretive contexts include text-image studies, performativity, socio-cultural aspects of the Nordic region, theatre and production history, and gender and sexuality studies. Same as CWL 463 and THEA 483. 3 undergraduate hours. 4 graduate hours. Prerequisite: One college-level literature or theatre course, or consent of instructor.

SCAN 470 Imagining the Welfare State
credit: 3 or 4 Hours. (https://courses.illinois.edu/schedule/terms/SCAN/470)

Investigate conceptions of the Nordic and West-European welfare state from the early twentieth-century to today from critical interpretive, historical, and cultural studies perspectives. Building on close analysis of influential works in literature, film, arts, and architecture from primarily Denmark, Sweden, and Norway, the course will address historical factors and characteristics of the socio-cultural imaginary surrounding the rise and, some argue, subsequent dismantling of the Nordic welfare state. Same as CWL 470 and EURO 470. 3 undergraduate hours. 4 graduate hours. Prerequisite: At least one course in literature, film, or the arts; or consent of the instructor.

SCAN 472 Kierkegaard and the Self credit: 3 or 4 Hours. (https://courses.illinois.edu/schedule/terms/SCAN/472)

Soren Kierkegaard is an early author who wrestled with the concept of the individual self and championed subjective experience as a counterbalance to objective rationalism. Students in this seminar-style course will gain extensive familiarity with Kierkegaard’s major works, as well as how they relate to two currents in 19th century society, existentialism and pietism. These works will be evaluated within their particular Nordic literary context, through critical analysis of related novels, plays and films by Andersen, Ibsen, Bremer, Strindberg, Lagerlof, Blixen, and Bergman (readings in English translation). Same as CWL 472, PHIL 472, and REL 472. 3 undergraduate hours. 4 graduate hours.

SCAN 490 Green Screen: Film and Nature
credit: 3 or 4 Hours. (https://courses.illinois.edu/schedule/terms/SCAN/490)

Provides a thorough examination of documentary and feature film in relation to the natural environment, sustainability studies, ecocriticism, and landscape representation especially in the Scandinavian film tradition. Incorporates theory, film culture and production analysis, and thematic interpretation. Films by Victor Sjostrom, Ingrid Bergman, Mai Zetterling, Lars von Trier, Susanne Bier, Jan Troell, and others. Same as EURO 489 and MACS 490. 3 undergraduate hours. 4 graduate hours.

SCAN 492 Scandinavian Cinema
credit: 3 or 4 Hours. (https://courses.illinois.edu/schedule/terms/SCAN/492)

Covers major directors, traditions, genres, themes, and production and distribution contexts of Scandinavian cinema and media industries. Addressing early cinema, fiction feature, documentary, shorts, experimental, and new and emergent artistic forms, the course will provide students with an in depth understanding of the rich culture of Scandinavian cinema since its inception. Same as MACS 492. 3 undergraduate hours. 4 graduate hours.

SCAN 493 Honors Senior Thesis credit: 2 to 4 Hours. (https://courses.illinois.edu/schedule/terms/SCAN/493)
