

ART EDUCATION, PHD

for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in Art Education

The PhD program in art education is designed for advanced graduate students who want to pursue scholarly study and research in art education. Doctoral level coursework includes studies in both art education and in other relevant disciplines and departments within the university.

In addition to required courses in art education, students may choose electives in studio art, art education, art history, and any graduate courses offered by the university that complement their studies or professional aspirations. Doctoral students will also complete a graduate minor as part of their studies. Specific course selection is determined in consultation with the student's advisor. A dissertation is required for the PhD degree.

Applicants for admission must hold a master's degree in art education or a related field from an accredited institution. Admission is determined by review of transcripts, letters of recommendation, resume, personal statement, and a writing sample.

Admission

Applications are considered for Fall semester admissions only.

Graduate Teaching Experience

Although teaching is not a general Graduate College requirement, experience in teaching is considered an important part of the graduate experience for master and doctoral students.

Facilities and Resources

Resources for graduate students in art and design include the Krannert Art Museum's excellent permanent collections and changing exhibitions; the Ricker Library of Art and Architecture, one of the largest art and architecture libraries in the nation; the Krannert Center for the Performing Arts; School of Art and Design facilities, which include extensive computer laboratories, digital photography and video editing equipment, wireless networking, ink-printing facilities, ceramic, woodworking, and metal shops, rapid prototyping and laser cutting, black/white and color darkrooms, shooting studios, and a wide selection of production and presentation equipment via reservation and checkout facility. A variety of lectures, symposia, musical programs, dramatic productions, and other cultural events associated with a large and progressive university complement the Art and Design facilities.

Financial Aid

Fellowships, assistantships, and tuition and service waivers are awarded each year on a competitive basis.
