Doctor of Philosophy
The student’s doctoral program is determined in consultation with a faculty advisory committee. The student’s evolving plans for the doctoral thesis serve as a guide in planning the program. Program coursework is comprised of two general categories: core studies and advanced studies within an area of specialization (i.e., a supporting field). The latter coursework is tailored to facilitate the student’s dissertation.

In addition, candidates must pass a written accountancy core eexamination and both oral preliminary and oral final examinations on the doctoral thesis. In the accountancy core examination, candidates must demonstrate a thorough knowledge of research methods and accounting theory; a general acquaintance with the subject matter of the variety addressed within accountancy doctoral core studies; and proficiency in the required areas of economic theory, quantitative methods, behavioral science and financial economics.

Online Master of Science in Accountancy (http://catalog.illinois.edu/graduate/graduate-majors/accountancy/msa-online)

The online Master of Science in Accountancy (http://onlinemsa.illinois.edu) (iMSA) is a fully online program. The highly-engaged delivery format and our world-renowned faculty provide students with a hands-on and practice-oriented learning experience. The iMSA prepares students for success in accounting careers and provides the academic prerequisites for candidates who wish to take the United States Uniform Certified Public Accountant (CPA) exam.

The iMSA is designed for those already working in the accounting field looking to refresh their skill set and for those who intend to use the degree to enter the field for the first time. A mirror of the on-campus Master of Science in Accountancy (http://catalog.illinois.edu/graduate/graduate-majors/accountancy/accountancy-ma) (MSA) curriculum, the online MSA (iMSA) uses a flexible program format. It allows students to balance academic life with other obligations. The shortest time to degree completion with an August start date is four semesters (18 months) and with a January start date 6 semesters (24 months). Students can take as many as eight semesters (36 months) to complete the degree.

The University of Illinois accountancy programs have consistently been ranked in the top three by the US News & World Report and the Public Accounting Report.
