The concentration in SLATE requires a minimum of 28 hours of graduate-level coursework and is open to PhD students in the participating Departments.

Admission

PhD students in any of the participating Departments are admitted into the program with the consent of their advisor and the Director of the SLATE program. A coursework prerequisite (LING 400 - Introduction to Language Structure) is required, and either it or an equivalent course must be completed prior to admission. If a student believes s/he has completed an equivalent (or more advanced) course than the prerequisite, s/he may submit a petition to the Director of SLATE requesting that course to be substituted for LING 400. Petition forms and instructions, as well as an admission form, are located on the SLATE website, at http://slate.illinois.edu/students/forms/ (http://www.slate.illinois.edu/students/forms/).

Language Requirement
In order to earn a SLATE concentration, students must demonstrate competence in a second language. For native English speakers, a "second language" can be the second language of research/teaching, or, for those concentrating on ESL as the subject of research and teaching, any second language. For non-native speakers, the proficiency in English that is required for admission is considered more than adequate to fulfill this requirement. This requirement is designed to ensure the full appreciation and understanding of what it means to experience the learning of a second language. Second language competence is assessed in a variety of ways, to be determined by the student's advisor.

Total Hours 28

Other Requirements (may overlap)

Requirement
Description
A student may request that another course they have taken be substituted for one that is on any list.

Courses applying toward fulfillment of the SLATE course requirements must be taken for a minimum of 3 graduate credit hours.

At least 5 of the required courses must be taken in residence at UIUC. Students are advised to contact the SLATE Director with any request to have courses taken elsewhere accepted as equivalents for any of the UIUC courses on the list.

Of the courses required for the SLATE concentration, at least four (4) must be at the 500-level.

A single course may count toward only one requirement. For instance, LING 550: Sociolinguistics II could fulfill either the Psycholinguistics/Sociolinguistics requirement OR be counted as one of the courses toward the Linguistics/Language Structure requirement, but not both.
In addition to the graduate concentration requirements, students must also complete the requirements of their major degree.

In order to earn a SLATE concentration, the student’s dissertation topic must be related to one or more aspects of second language studies. The SLATE Executive Committee verifies that the content qualifies.

for the Graduate Concentration in Second Language Acquisition & Teacher Education

By the end of their Ph.D. in French, Second Language Acquisition, students will be able to demonstrate the following:

1. Language: students display Advanced-High to Superior proficiency in French and in English in all forms and modes of communication (oral, written; interpretive, presentational, interpersonal), as well as high intercultural competence and effectiveness, and Intermediate-Mid or above proficiency in a third language in all forms and modes of communication (oral, written; interpretive, presentational, interpersonal). See ACTFL guidelines.

2. Teaching: students are able to expertly teach French as a foreign language at the novice and intermediate levels, informed by updated research and grounded in principles of proficiency-oriented curriculum (e.g., setting learning objectives and appropriate lesson plans, distinguishing between teaching and learning, efficient and inclusive classroom and course management practices, valid and adaptive assessment methods, design and revision of syllabi, programmatic coordination and sequencing etc.)

3. Specialized knowledge in French studies: students can recall, relate, explain, discuss, and utilize specialized knowledge in at least two areas of French studies (e.g., translation; studies in Francophonie; 18th century literature, etc.)

4. Expert knowledge in applied linguistics: students demonstrate expert and timely knowledge of theories, concepts, and debates in areas of French applied linguistics, language curriculum and development, and both quantitative and qualitative research methods consistent with research in the field of French and Second Language Acquisition Teacher Education

5. Research: students are able to expertly evaluate, design, conduct, write about, present, publish, and defend research about French in Second Language Acquisition Teacher Education, primarily in the shape of a dissertation

6. Professionalism: students demonstrate ethical practices in teaching and researching French and Second Language Acquisition Teacher Education (e.g., ongoing professional development; commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion; mentoring and/or supervising; collegial collaborations; outreach efforts, etc.), and preparedness to become competitive on the academic job market related to French and Second Language Acquisition Teacher Education (e.g., preparation to job interviews; CVs and cover letters; teaching/research/DEI statements; sample syllabi, etc.)
