

LEARNING OUTCOMES: LINGUISTICS, PHD

Learning Outcomes for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in Linguistics

1. Students will receive grounding in core areas of language and linguistics.
2. Students will receive grounding in their area of linguistic specialization.
3. Students will learn the research methodology appropriate for their subfield of linguistics.
4. Students will gain academic oral communication and presentation skills.
5. Students will gain academic writing skills.
6. Students will learn to prepare a portfolio for the job market.