RUSSIAN, EAST EUROPEAN, AND EURASIAN STUDIES, MA
for the degree of Master of Arts in Russian, East European, and Eurasian Studies

About the Major
Electives outside Russian, East European, and Eurasian Studies should complement the student’s core courses, research, and professional interests. A master’s thesis or major research paper is required, to be based on research using primary sources, including sources in the language used to meet the competency requirement.

Admission
Prospective graduate students should have completed at least two years of Russian or another language of Eastern Europe or Eurasia. Applicants must submit the Graduate College application for admission, certified transcripts of all undergraduate and graduate work, Graduate Record Examination (GRE) scores (verbal, quantitative, and written), three letters of reference, and a writing sample. International students must submit Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) scores. All applicants must meet the requirements of the Graduate College. Admission is ordinarily in the fall semester, but occasional exceptions are made for spring and summer admission.

Faculty Research Interests
The faculty (https://reeec.illinois.edu/people/groups/faculty/) affiliated with the Center represent a broad range of interests and methodological approaches in the social sciences and the humanities, as well as the professional schools.

Facilities and Resources
The Russian, East European, and Eurasian Center was founded in 1959 and designated a National Resource Center by the U.S. Department of Education. It serves as an intellectual and institutional hub for the University community and the public through conferences, lectures, colloquia, visiting scholars, study groups, exhibits, films, and other activities.

The annual Summer Research Laboratory on Russia, Eastern Europe, and Eurasia features special workshops, seminars, lectures, films, and other events, most of which are free and open to the public.

The International and Area Studies Library (https://www.library.illinois.edu/ias/) at the University of Illinois has one of the country’s three outstanding Slavic library collections (https://www.library.illinois.edu/ias/spx/). The Slavic Reference Service (https://www.library.illinois.edu/ias/spx/srs/) serves all faculty and students with expert bibliographers.

Language training is provided by the Departments of Germanic Languages & Literatures (https://germanic.illinois.edu/), Linguistics (https://linguistics.illinois.edu/), and Slavic Languages & Literatures (https://slavic.illinois.edu/) in:

- Bulgarian
- Bosnian, Croatian, Serbian
- Czech
- Old Church Slavonic
- Polish
- Russian
- Turkish
- Ukrainian
- Yiddish

Financial Aid
Financial aid is awarded on an academic-year basis. All fellowships and assistantships include a stipend plus tuition and fee waiver. Qualified incoming students who are U.S. citizens or permanent residents should also apply for U.S. Department of Education Title VI Foreign Language and Area Studies (FLAS) fellowships (http://publish.illinois.edu/illinoisflas/) offered through REEEC or other FLAS-granting campus centers.

Qualified students may also be eligible for other fellowships at the campus or departmental level. A limited number of teaching and graduate assistantships, which include a tuition and fee waiver, may also be available to outstanding students through REEEC and other units. The Graduate College maintains a list of available assistantships (https://grad.illinois.edu/clearinghouse/); additional information on need-based financial aid may be obtained from the Graduate College Fellowships Office (https://grad.illinois.edu/fellowships/about/).

For the degree of Master of Arts in Russian, East European, and Eurasian Studies

The Master of Arts in Russian, East European, and Eurasian Studies (REEES) is a two-year program designed to prepare students for further academic study in a particular discipline or for careers in government, NGOs, business, the media, international law, private foundations, or cultural exchanges. The program provides broad exposure to the history, cultures, societies, and politics of the area as well as to the variety of disciplinary and interdisciplinary approaches to its study. For individuals planning non-academic careers, such study is essential in preparing to respond to the growing opportunities and challenges presented by this region. The program also provides students pursuing academic careers with necessary language skills, disciplinary exploration, and an expanded knowledge base about the REEE region.

By the end of our program, students will have:

1. An advanced understanding of the REEE region achieved through analyzing original scholarship and primary sources (or data) from Russia, East Europe, and Eurasia.
2. An interdisciplinary perspective on the REEES field achieved through required coursework in at least three disciplines, together with exposure to pertinent approaches, paradigms, forms of data and their interpretation, and regional issues and content.
3. An ability to begin to engage with REEES scholarship, cultures, and communities by achieving an intermediate-high proficiency (third-year competency) in at least one regional language.
4. Advanced research skills developed through expert rigorous regional bibliographic and research training.
5. Essential analytical writing skills developed through the production of a thesis or other extensive original research work mentored by a faculty expert.
