English majors at the University of Illinois take 12 courses (36 hours) from the Department of English in the study of literature, text, and culture. These courses help students develop sophisticated interpretation and composition skills through studying a wide range of cultural materials, historical periods, and literatures.

The Department of English sponsors two concentrations.

The English Concentration (http://catalog.illinois.edu/undergraduate/las/academic-units/english/english-concentration) is organized to provide instruction in literature in English, literary theory and criticism, the English language, English education, film, cultural studies, and closely related fields. Students who major in English have many choices in planning a field of study, but the basic program is designed to accommodate students who seek to broaden their familiarity with our literature, to intensify their language skills for personal and professional reasons, and to learn more about literature's relationship to the other arts, history, philosophy, psychology, and the modern languages.

The English Teaching Concentration (http://catalog.illinois.edu/undergraduate/las/academic-units/english/english-teaching-concentration) leads to certification to teach in Secondary School. Coursework in this concentration is largely similar to the English Concentration and based on the same core goals as the English Concentration. Students working toward earning a teaching certificate are guided toward additional coursework focused on language and composition.

The department also offers a major in Creative Writing (http://catalog.illinois.edu/undergraduate/las/academic-units/english/creative-writing).

For the Degree of Bachelor of Arts in Liberal Arts and Sciences

Major in Sciences and Letters Curriculum

Students must select one concentration.

- English Concentration (http://catalog.illinois.edu/undergraduate/las/academic-units/english/english-concentration)
- English Teaching Concentration (http://catalog.illinois.edu/undergraduate/las/academic-units/english/english-teaching-concentration)

The Department of English also offers a major in Creative Writing (http://catalog.illinois.edu/undergraduate/las/academic-units/english/creative-writing).
