GENDER AND WOMEN’S STUDIES

The mission of the Department of Gender and Women’s Studies (GWS) is to explore, analyze and challenge the ways in which gender shapes people’s lives. Assumptions about gender difference saturate many aspects of social and political life and create different forms of inequality in the workforce, in education, in cultural production, in scientific research, as well as in resource allocation in both public and private institutions. Because gender assumptions manifest differently in various communities, in our courses we systematically incorporate analysis of how race, ethnicity, class, sexuality, and physical ability shape gender inequality.

We train students to identify where and how inequalities are produced and reproduced. We also give them the skills to figure out how to initiate change and work for justice. They go on to challenge gender inequalities in their personal lives, in their communities, and in their future careers.

GWS 315  War, Memory, and Cinema  credit: 3 Hours.
Same as AAS 315. See AAS 315.

GWS 320  Gender & Latina/o Migration  credit: 3 Hours.
Same as LLS 320 and SOC 321. See LLS 320.

GWS 325  Lesbian/Queer Media Cultures  credit: 3 Hours.
Discusses how various LGBT/Q communities were consolidated or drawn together by print and invented in the very acts of writing, distributing, purchasing, and reading print artifacts. Students examine early homophile publications, the rise of presses dedicated to LGBT/Q literature, independent bookstores and distribution networks, as well as the contemporary world of zines, blogs, chatrooms, fanfiction, and online journals, to see the intersection of sexuality, community, identity, and the print sphere. Students will learn how to historicize the rise of various LGBT/Q subcultures through a long history of print and how to navigate and understand the gregarious contemporary world of online publishing and social networking. Prerequisite: Previous course in GWS recommended.

GWS 333  Memoir & Autobiography  credit: 3 Hours.
Explores the phenomenon of autobiography in the contemporary world. Students will read theories of autobiography, and ask questions about how writing about the self is gendered, and how representations of the self fare in the outside world. An important aspect of the course will be examinations of how changing media such as film, television talk shows and the Internet shape these representations. Students will be assigned to read and make a presentation on one of the supplementary texts of autobiographies chosen from authors in the First and Third worlds. Same as ENGL 333.

GWS 334  Brazilian Women's Lit Trans  credit: 3 Hours.
Same as PORT 334. See PORT 334.
This course satisfies the General Education Criteria for:
Humanities - Lit Arts
Cultural Studies - Western

GWS 335  Film, TV, and Gender  credit: 3 Hours.
Examines the history and theory of film, television, and their interrelationship through one or more specific case studies. Topics may include: film and feminist movements; girl films; queer TV; gender, sport and TV. Focuses attention on gender and related issues such as race, ethnicity, sexuality, age, ability and disability, class, and nationality. Addresses issues of representation, narrative, genre, industry, audience, exhibition, media convergence, new and mobile media, and social space. Same as MACS 335.

GWS 337  Interrogating Masculinities  credit: 3 Hours.
Explores the social construction of gender as it pertains to masculinities in conjunction with analyses of race, class, gender, ability, and sexuality. Masculinities, in its various forms, shapes and lives of both women and men and this course will examine the construction, reproduction, and impact of masculinities on the institutions of politics, education, work, religion, sports, family, media, and the military to name a few. Paying careful attention to the conjunctures between materiality and culture, this course will interrogate how masculinities shape individual lives, groups, nationalisms, organizations, and institutions and will analyze the ways in which power functions within local transnational contexts. Above all, this course offers a road map for forging new, progressive models of masculinity.

GWS 340  Gender, Relationships & Society  credit: 3 Hours.
Same as HDFS 340 and SOC 322. See HDFS 340.

GWS 345  Digital & Gender Cultures  credit: 3 Hours.
This interdisciplinary course uses the lens of gender critique and pairs it with social activism to provide students analytical tools to engage with, reshape, and create digital cultures. Examines recent research and public policies related to the gendered, raced, and classes dimensions of digital cultures and inequality; the broad range of labor issues embedded in the growing income disparity related to digital cultures; the various ways that digital inequality has been defined by public policy, sociologists, and activists, and real examples of collective activism and social change related to emerging technologies. Same as INFO 345, MACS 345, and SOC 345.

GWS 350  Feminist & Gender Theory  credit: 3 Hours.
Interdisciplinary survey of feminist and gender theory. Traces developments in feminist theory and LGBT/Q approaches and explores contemporary debates.

GWS 355  Beauty and Culture  credit: 3 Hours.
Examines beauty and culture, in particular how tropes, ideologies, and politics bolster the construction of beauty as an aesthetic value. Looks at the ways in which beauty is imagined, visualized, narrated, naturalized, reproduced, privileged, and contested through various venues such as art, performance, philosophy, media, history, and popular culture. Attention will be given to race, class, gender, sexuality, and the implications thereof.

GWS 356  Sex & Gender in Popular Media  credit: 3 Hours.
Same as MACS 356. See MACS 356.
This course satisfies the General Education Criteria for:
Cultural Studies - Western

GWS 360  Women and the Visual Arts  credit: 3 Hours.
Same as ARTH 360. See ARTH 360.
GWS 361  Women in East Asia  credit: 3 Hours.
Same as EALC 361. See EALC 361.
This course satisfies the General Education Criteria for:
Cultural Studies - Non-West
Social Beh Sci - Soc Sci

GWS 363  Gender, Health & Pop Culture  credit: 3 Hours.
Aspects of popular culture, including television, magazines, newspapers, social networking sites, and internet sources to name a few, are ways that health information is disseminated. Students will examine how we define health and understand disease as related to popular culture. Discusses how people resist or reinforce these messages about health, well being, fitness, and diet. Also discusses how understandings of race, sexuality and class affect the ways that we think about sickness, health and constructions of gender.

GWS 366  Feminist Disability Studies  credit: 3 Hours.
Explores the complex relationship between gender and disability. Approaching disability as a social and political category rather than a strictly medical one, we will ask: how is the language of disability used to produce and police a variety of gender, sexual, and racial identities as non-normative? How might debates over medicine, technology, and the concept of "natural" pit gender and disability against one another? Have feminist, queer, and transgender scholarship and activism engaged disability? Prerequisite: One of the following: GWS 100, GWS 201, GWS 202.

GWS 370  Queer Theory  credit: 3 Hours.
Traces the development of queer theory as a mode for understanding queer studies methodologies and the changing intellectual landscape of key issues in the field. As part of the course, students will review key concepts and theoretical schools of thought, navigating important debates guiding the field. Theories will engage questions of the social and cultural through topics including race, gender, nation, family, history, identity formation, sexology, the state, and capital. Same as SOC 320.
Prerequisite: GWS 100, GWS 201, GWS 202, or consent of instructor.

GWS 376  Children and Youth Literature  credit: 3 Hours.
Same as CWL 376, EURO 376, and SCAN 376. See SCAN 376.

GWS 378  Fairy Tales & Gender Formation  credit: 3 Hours.
Discusses how femininity and gender formation are related through fairy tales. As children grow they are taught the difference between male and female roles. One of the main ways this instruction takes place is through the pleasurable media of fairy tales in books, poems, and more recently, films. Sleeping Beauty, Snow White, Beauty and the Best, and the Little Mermaid, among others, will be examined to understand how sexual identity is constructed differently in different cultures, and how issues such as rape and incest are addressed within the narratives. The readings explore the ways that fairy tales work to express psychological reactions to maturation while conditioning both characters and readers to adopt specific social roles in adulthood. Same as ENGL 378.

GWS 380  Black Women Hist & Cultures  credit: 3 Hours.
Interdisciplinary study of black women's multiple histories and varied cultures including black women from North America, Africa, and the Caribbean. Same as AFRO 380. Prerequisite: AFRO 100 or GWS 100 or GWS 250 or consent of instructor.
This course satisfies the General Education Criteria for:
Cultural Studies - Non-West

GWS 382  Black Women & Popular Culture  credit: 3 Hours.
Explores how Black women have been are currently portrayed in popular media, such as television, internet, movies, and popular mediums such as magazines, popular fiction, newspapers, and other cultural phenomenon. Examines what these portrayals reveal about Black women's role in society and how black women as consumer and participants respond to these stereotypes, and create alternative oppositional images.
This course satisfies the General Education Criteria for:
Cultural Studies - US Minority

GWS 383  Hist of Blk Women's Activism  credit: 3 Hours.
Same as AFRO 383 and HIST 383. See AFRO 383.

GWS 385  Transnational Sexualities  credit: 3 Hours.
Investigates the ways in which sexual identities change as national contexts change, as borders are imagined, valued, and crossed, and as definitions of race, gender, and religion shift. Interrogates how national and transnational identities (at home and abroad), modernites, histories, and colonial and global narratives are built on ideas of racialized sexualities, and as such, is particularly interested in the study of queer diaspora. Importantly, this course utilizes transnational feminist frameworks for re-thinking issues related to sexuality, immigration, nation-building, race and gender. Areas of inquiry include imperialism, immigration, war, tourism and globalization. Same as HIST 385.
Prerequisite: GWS 100, GWS 201 or GWS 202 or consent of instructor.

GWS 387  History of Sexuality in U.S.  credit: 3 Hours.
Explores a wide variety of sources to understand how notions of sexuality have emerged and been contested at key moments in U.S. history. Our guiding questions include: How have "official" or governing discourses of sexuality (in law, medicine, religions, science) been formulated? In turn, how have "ordinary" people understood and practiced their sexuality? How has the meaning of particular sexual practices changed over time? How have ideas about race, gender, and/or class been embedded within the discourse of sexuality at different moments in U.S. history? What methods of reading and interpretation are most useful for the historical study of sexuality? Also emphasizes skills such as critically analyzing primary sources within their historical context; interpreting different types of primary sources; locating, understanding, and evaluating scholarly secondary sources; and presenting historical arguments, based on both primary and secondary sources. Same as HIST 387.

GWS 390  Individual Study  credit: 0 to 3 Hours.
Special topics not treated in regularly scheduled classes. Approved for letter and S/U grading. May be repeated to a maximum of 6 hours if topics vary. Prerequisite: One course in Gender and Women's Studies; consent of instructor.

GWS 392  Chicanas&Latinas: Self&Society  credit: 3 Hours.
Same as LLS 392 and SOC 392. See LLS 392.
This course satisfies the General Education Criteria for:
Advanced Composition

GWS 395  Intermediate Topics GWS  credit: 3 Hours.
Approved for letter and S/U grading. May be repeated in the same term to a maximum of 9 hours; may be repeated in separate terms to a maximum of 12 hours.

GWS 397  Sexuality in Modern Europe  credit: 3 Hours.
Couse Information: Same as HIST 397. See HIST 397.
GWS 399  GWS Internship  credit: 3 Hours.
Directed internship experience for GWS students. Students will complete course requirements in addition to holding a semester long internship. Students must have consent of the Internship Coordinator. Approved for Letter and S/U grading. Prerequisite: GWS major or minor; junior or senior standing and completion of six hours of coursework in GWS, or consent of the instructor.

GWS 403  Women in Muslim Societies  credit: 3 or 4 Hours.

GWS 421  Sex Role Theory in Counseling  credit: 4 Hours.
Same as EPSY 421. See EPSY 421.

GWS 424  Gender & Race in Contemp Arch  credit: 3 Hours.
Same as ARCH 424. See ARCH 424.

GWS 432  Gender and Language  credit: 3 or 4 Hours.
Same as CMN 432 and LING 432. See CMN 432.

GWS 435  Commodifying Difference  credit: 3 or 4 Hours.
Same as AAS 435, AFRO 435, LLS 435, and MACS 432. See LLS 435.

GWS 442  Body, Culture & Society  credit: 3 or 4 Hours.
Same as KIN 442. See KIN 442.

GWS 445  Latina Literature  credit: 3 or 4 Hours.
Same as LLS 442 and SPAN 442. See LLS 442.

GWS 450  Topics in Bodies and Genders  credit: 3 Hours.
Same as CWL 450. See CWL 450.

GWS 454  Social Work with Women  credit: 3 or 4 Hours.
Same as SOCW 455. See SOCW 455.

GWS 459  Gender, Sex, & Postcoloniality  credit: 3 or 4 Hours.
Explores the relationship of imperialism, sexuality, and race through the lens of postcolonial theory. Same as HIST 459. 3 undergraduate hours. 4 graduate hours. Prerequisite: GWS 100 or GWS 250 and GWS 350 or GWS 370; or consent of instructor.

GWS 462  Hip Hop Feminism  credit: 3 or 4 Hours.
Explores how hip hop has shaped the culture, aesthetics, experiences, and perspectives of an emergent generation of artists, scholars, and writers with several aims: 1) To challenge systemic social inequalities. 2) To articulate new visions of justice that depend on the power young people possess. To better understand how and why the relationship between hip hop and feminism is coherent, meaningful, and compelling, students will become familiar with artists working within and beyond various elements of hip hop (rap, graffiti, emceeing, deejaying, etc.), social critics concerned with documenting hip hop's cultural practices, and critical educator (broadly defined). 3 undergraduate hours. 4 graduate hours.

GWS 464  Theories & Theologies of Liberation  credit: 3 or 4 Hours.
Examination of theories and theologies of liberation, from Latin American liberation theologies and Islamic feminisms and anticolonial movements to Third World liberation struggles, the Gay Liberation Front, and the Black Freedom movement. Uses an expansive feminist lens to discuss these histories, theories, and theologies in relation to issues of violence/nonviolence; religion/secularity; art and aesthetics; gender, sex, and sexuality; and power. Same as AAS 464, ANTH 464, and REL 464. 3 undergraduate hours. 4 graduate hours. Prerequisite: GWS 100 or GWS 250 and GWS 350 or GWS 370; or consent of instructor.

GWS 465  Race, Sex, and Deviance  credit: 3 or 4 Hours.
Same as AAS 465, AFRO 465, and LLS 465. See LLS 465.

GWS 467  Locating Queer Culture  credit: 3 Hours.
Our goal is to learn different methods for researching "queer culture," with a special focus on the local context. Explores two research methods in depth: history and ethnography. Students will produce their own original research based on genuine gaps in existing knowledge. Provides an opportunity to learn both received knowledge about queer culture, as well as that which we do not yet know. By the end of this course, the class will collectively produce new knowledge about queer culture using local stories. Same as HIST 468. 3 undergraduate hours. No graduate credit.

GWS 470  Transgender Studies  credit: 3 or 4 Hours.
What are the issues and politics related to transgender and transsexual identities? Students will examine and critically evaluate historical and contemporary debates that contest normative male/female binaries and traditional categorizations of sexuality. The course moves beyond these initial inquiries into gender theory to consider the effects of institutional discourses produced through stage and civil society. Taught with particular attention given to questions of race, national formations, medical, and legal discourses. Areas of inquiry may include gender theory, transnational identities, gendered and racial performances, medical and psychological diagnoses, violence, the law, and the Prison Industrial Complex. Through these topics, students will be asked to consider important questions over political and legal representation, autonomy, the rights of citizenship, and the practice of everyday life. 3 undergraduate hours. 4 graduate hours. Prerequisite: One course in Gender and Women's Studies at the 200- or 300-level, or consent of instructor.

GWS 475  Queering Legal Cultures  credit: 3 or 4 Hours.
Explores the many forms of address that legal language can take, and how these legal forms affect subjects who are barely legible before the law. We will look at state laws, supreme-court decisions, policy publications, literature and social commentaries, fictional texts - as mobbed through social media platforms - to try to understand how queer (as verb, noun, adjective) emerges as a way in and out of legal spaces. Topics will include historical formations, current debates, and landmark cases in both national and transnational contexts. 3 undergraduate hours. 4 graduate hours.

GWS 478  Sex, Power and Politics  credit: 3 or 4 Hours.
Examines representations of the relationship between sex, power, and subjectivity and how they have shaped feminism. Explores critical approaches to feminist analyses of women's oppression and debates about sexuality, including issues such as consent, rape and prostitution. Same as PS 413. 3 undergraduate hours. 4 graduate hours. Prerequisite: One course in Gender and Women's Studies at the 200- and 300-level or consent of instructor.

Information listed in this catalog is current as of 05/2018
GWS 490  Individual Study  credit: 2 to 4 Hours.
Supervised reading and research in Gender and Women's Studies chosen by the student with instructor approval. 2 to 4 undergraduate hours.
2 to 4 graduate hours. May be repeated to a maximum of 6 hours.
Prerequisite: Two courses in Gender and Women's Studies at the 200-400 levels; or junior standing; or consent of instructor.

GWS 495  Advanced Topics GWS  credit: 3 or 4 Hours.
3 undergraduate hours. 4 graduate hours. Approved for letter and S/U grading. May be repeated in the same term to a maximum of 9 undergraduate hours or 12 graduate hours; may be repeated in separate terms to a maximum of 12 undergraduate or 12 graduate hours.

GWS 498  Senior Seminar  credit: 3 Hours.
Considers the relationship between theory and research in Women's Studies. Reviews and examines the key issues of feminist scholarship.
Provides students with the methodological knowledge and opportunity to carry out a research project. 3 undergraduate hours. No graduate credit.
Prerequisite: Senior standing and enrollment as a major in Gender and Women's Studies, or consent of instructor.
This course satisfies the General Education Criteria for:
Advanced Composition
