Learning Outcomes for the degree of Bachelor of Arts in Liberal Arts & Sciences Major in Classics, Classical Archaeology Concentration

1. Acquire a detailed knowledge of the culture and material remains of Ancient Greek and Roman civilizations and the methods by which these have been preserved and uncovered.

2. Situate this knowledge within the broader cultural contexts of Ancient Greek and Roman civilizations in order to understand how and why materials were produced, the functions they served, and the role that they play in shaping contemporary understanding of ancient cultures.

3. Acquire familiarity with contemporary methods of cultural and historical analysis to facilitate self-directed inquiry into the material remains of Ancient Greek and Roman cultures.

4. Acquire an awareness of the place of Ancient Greek and Roman culture in the western tradition in order to understand connections between past and present.

5. Acquire an appreciation of how the careful engagement with other cultures can facilitate new ways of understanding and interpreting one's own contemporary culture.